SITUATION

Blanchot, called "couste de blanchot" in 1537, comes from the Germanic blank "clear". This climate undoubtedly takes its name from the stony nature of the soil, composed of whitish limestone, and the light-colored clay-limestone subsoil.

The climate faces south-east, on the slopes of a cool, well-ventilated valley that receives only morning sunshine where the limestone soils drain well.

TASTING AND FOOD PAIRINGS

This wine is floral, delicate and sensitive, light, with a subtle bouquet of roses and, as it ages, undergrowth and mousseron. With a beautiful aromatic formula, it expresses freshness, power, suppleness and persistent minerality. Very feminine and rich, it evolves a little more rapidly than the other Grands Crus. It can be drunk from 4 to 5 years of age.

Serving suggestions: Grilled fish or fish in sauce, grilled white meat or white meat in cream sauce.
